ARCATA -- Baroni Designs, Arcata beaded and sterling silver jewelry manufacturer, has donated $1,350 to the Humboldt Community Breast Health Project (HCBHP) this week.

The company announced that the proceeds from their breast cancer awareness collection will go to the HCBHP to help in their mission of being a community resource of support and education for those facing a breast health concern or a diagnosis of breast or gynecologic cancer.

Baroni Designs introduced the collection, which includes a bracelet and two charmed necklaces, in August. The HCBHP plans to use the money for providing client services free of charge for women with breast and gynecologic cancer.

"We are grateful and humbled to have worked with Dawn Elsbree and the Humboldt Community Breast Health Project," said Baroni Designs co-owner Sarah Baroni. "We owe a lot to this community and we are pleased to have been able to give back in some way."

Dawn Elsbree, executive director of HCBHP, was grateful for the donation and the company's willingness to participate in the cause

"It's a dream come true to have a business call and pledge their support in such a way," Elsbree said. "Thank you to Baroni Designs for being so generous and for caring about women with breast cancer."
